NOT GUILTY.

THE FAMOUS MILLINGTON TRIAL AT LAST CONCLUDED.

Judge Belford's Angry Eloquence is Ineffectual—The Horror Hunters Were Present in Force—How the Verdict was Received—History of the Case.

DENVER, April 29.—The long, weary Millington trial is over now; the arguments are ended; the last word has been said; the fate of Frank Millington, Mary Millington and Dillie hangs on the verdict of twelve men. When Judge Belford had fretted the tired air of the court room for some few hours this afternoon with his angry eloquence, there remained but the verdict of the jury to put the finishing touch to this strange story and write "finis" to the lives of three murderers, or to loose from the chain of circumstances three unfortunate and innocent people.

But the trial went on today as it has gone on so many days before with the same weary tedious recitation of facts. It was only at times, as Judge Belford like some weird conjurer, called up from circumstances in this case the grim shadows of his imagination, that the jury were able to show anything like enthusiasm. His pictures were all in black and white; he dipped his brush in Stygian blackness and painted Frank Millington in the guise of a fiend incarnate, who had gone systematically to work to seduce William Avery's wife for the purpose of gaining a fortune.

It was a brilliant and telling speech, full of color, metaphor and illustration. The defendants were interested, intensely interested. Upon Mrs. Millington's face there was an expression of fearful and indignant surprise. Dillie was clearly astounded at the clever way in which the lawyer turned her modest protestations against her brother's love; but Frank Millington sat and listened with an air of something like "I thought as much."

The court room was crowded. There were friends and there were enemies of the Millingtons there; but the major part of the throng were mere curiosity-hunting people, to whom human lives are put up as forfeit, when fate turns on the fall of a die and by the fall three human beings may live to enjoy the free air or die disgraced, then the horror hunters turn out. It is a splendid spectacle to see men casting lots for human lives, and so all the people turn out to witness the great game.

It is 12 o'clock. Judge Belford has wearied of laying the lash upon Frank Millington's shoulders. His throat is dry with the burning epithets he has heaped on him. But he goes at his work again at 2 o'clock and still the game goes on. Judge Belford speaks until 4 o'clock. The defendants writhe under the lash of his scorching eloquence. But at last it is all over, all the torture and misery of it, and the case is resigned to the twelve men in the jury box. Upon their conscience and their judgment the fate of Frank Millington and his wife and his sister rests. There was a sensational scene on the opening of the court this morning. Mr. Patterson, yesterday made the direct charge that one of the jurors had been bribed. Judge Gilliland the first thing today denounced the charges in terse emphatic terms, and demanded an investigation, and though Mr. Patterson did not be able to prove his statement, the court refused to order an investigation and the address of Judge Belford began.

The jury at 9 o'clock, after having been out five hours, during which time but one ballot was cast, came into court with a verdict of "Not guilty."

The scene in the court room when the verdict was announced. The biggest demonstration ever marked from the eyes of the three defendants and they were completely overcome with emotion. Their friends rushed to them with congratulations, and for a time it seemed as though they would be still more the kindness showered upon them.

Notwithstanding the verdict was not unexpected, the crowd which had gathered in the corridors signified their approval by deafening shouts and throwing in the air of hats and anything which came within their reach, and the court bailiffs were powerless to stop the outbreak.

The history of the case briefly is as follows:

Several years ago Mrs. Avery went to Pueblo from New York, and opened an abstract office. It was no secret that the wife of Mr. and Mrs. Avery were not the most amicable. In 1889 Frank Millington, son of Rev. Millington, of this city, went to Fort Collins and entered into partnership with Avery. Millington and Mrs. Avery soon fell in love and the relations were the cause of some little gossip in the town. Last May, Avery, who had for years been an invalid, sickened and soon died. Twelve days later Mrs. Avery and Millington were quietly married at Wyoming. Upon their return home Avery's brothers started the story that their brother's death was the result of arsenical poisoning. The body was taken up three times and portions taken from the body for analysis, until little but bones remained. In some of the analyses arsenic was found and in others none.

Millington, his wife and Dillie Millington, Dillie's sister, were arrested charged with murder. They were tried at Fort Collins [illegible]. A change of venue was taken to this city and the second trial commenced on January 5th before Judge Gilliland.

The most eminent counsel in the state were engaged. For the defense, Hon. T. Patterson, Hon. C. S. Thomas and Harry [illegible]; for the prosecution, ex-Congressman Bond, Judge Ballard and Mr. Carrigues. The trial has been very expensive, the cost of Laramie county being in the neighborhood of $20,000.

Tariff League Meeting.

NEW YORK, April 29.—There was not a full seat at the banquet of the American Protective Tariff league held in Madison Square Garden assembly room tonight. The dining room was handsomely decorated with flags and flowers. Everything about the feast was emblematic of American industries. The dishes, cutlery, table-cloths, napkins and cigars, and even the boxes in which the cigars were all of American manufacture, were of a quality and finish that gratified American pride. Conspicuous among the decorations was an immense bank of flowers behind the speaker's table, in the center of which was the banner of the American Tariff league. The tables and room were literally covered with flowers and foliage plants. At the fifteen tables, there sat 1500 guests.

Cornelius N. Bliss presided. At the chairman's table at either side sat Vice-President Morton on the right, and Hon. Wm. McKinley on the left. Others at this table were Secretary Noble, Senator Hiscock, J. P. Dolliver of Iowa, Nelson W. Aldrich, J. B. Foraker, Jos. N. Dolph of Oregon, J. S. Clarkson, C. F. Hanson, Murat Halstead, J. M. Pollard and George A. Sheridan. Among those present were Robert P. Porter, Wm. Dixon, of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, L. L. Crall, of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, William Laffan and ex-Senator Platt. As time drew near for the speech-making the gallery began to fill with ladies. The list of toasts provided was a lengthy one and was as follows:

"The President," Secretary John W. Noble.

"Protection the True National Policy," Hon. Wm. McKinley, Jr.

"The Maintenance of the Protective System Indispensible to a Profitable Foreign Commerce," Hon. Nelson W. Aldrich.

"The Empire State and the Tariff of 1890," Hon. Frank Hiscock of New York.

"Protection as It Affects the Property of the People and the Development of the Pacific Coast," Hon. Jos. N. Dolph.

"Reciprocal Trade Between the United States and Her Sister American Republics," Wm. E. Curtis.

"The Wage-Earners' Interest in Protection," George Gunton of New York.

"American Commerce and Shipping," Hon. John M. Farquhar, of New York.

"Free Material, Foreign Markets," Gen. Geo. A. Sheridan, of New York.

"The New South, the Product and Now the Bulwark of Protection," Hon. J. F. Hanson, of Georgia.

"The Fruits of Protection as Shown by the Eleventh Census," Hon. Robert P. Porter, of Washington.

"Our Mining Resources, Their Development Under Protection, the Basis of Our Industrial Growth," Hon. John P. Jones, of Nevada.

"Agriculture and the Tariff, the American Protective System a Farmers' Policy," Hon. J. H. Walker, of Massachusetts.

When the American feast had been thoroughly enjoyed the feast of eloquence began.

In the absence of President Armstrong, who had been called away by the serious illness of his son, Cornelius N. Bliss extended the greeting to the friends and members of the American Protective Tariff league. The officers of the league, he said, congratulated the members on the enactment of the Fifty-first congress of a legislation that will confirm the policy of protection and reciprocity.

It was 9 o'clock when Mr. Bliss began to speak. At the close of his remarks he introduced Secretary Noble, who said in part:

"My expressions tonight are my own. This is an auspicious time for members of the Republican party to assemble and to take counsel together. The protection of our industries is uniting our country even once more. We rejoice tonight with exceeding joy. There is indeed a president of the United States, and you will all agree with me in saying that he is a good president. Let us maintain peace with honor, looking not abroad for directions or approval. Let us depend upon the judgment of our own people for our own interests."

Mr. Noble was loudly applauded. Mr. Bliss then proposed the health of Vice President Morton, who briefly thanked the assemblage saying he was there as a member of the Protective Tariff league. He was loudly applauded.

Major McKinley was then introduced. In the introduction he was spoken of as the next governor of Ohio, and cheers lasted fully five minutes followed this selly. The speaker in part said:

"I am hardly able to speak to-night. If I ever expected that I was a protectionist that regret does not exist to-night. I am glad to belong to a party advocated by such men as Webster, Clay, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Harrison. (Cheers.)

"No man should feel indulgent in the efficiency of a great principle when every president but two been on the same side. We will have a tariff so long as we have a government. All of us will agree, whether Democratic or Republican, that the tariff is the wise and best method of raising the great bulk of revenue required to conduct our government. The question is, shall it be levied alone for the purpose of revenue, or to aid the development of our industries and to give employment to our people? The party to which I belong has declared that the tariff should be so favored as to give employment to American labor. A tariff for revenue and revenue only, is always paid by the consumer, but this cannot be so the way present we are able to manufacture almost everything. Competition regulates the price.

Major McKinley then referred at length to the tariff law of 1890. Continuing, he said: "I am impatient to see this tariff bill of the next congress. With a two-thirds majority in the house of representatives, what will it be? The next Democratic tariff bill will be a regular crazy-quilt (cheers and laughter), but there will be no free wool, no free coal.

In speaking of what the tariff bill of 1890 had done, he said it had made possible reciprocity, and trade in sugar, hides and coffee. It had reduced the revenue of imported tax on export goods, to 90 per cent. of the import duty. The country was prospering. Now, that they wished to go on prospering and no "knocking" with the tariff in closing, the speaker said:

"I predict that the tariff law will not be changed in the next half a dozen years, and I am encouraging the Republican party on protection lines."

Mr. McKinley was compelled to stop several times while speaking, to wipe the perspiration from his face. He appeared to be far from a well man. The applause the Ohio ex-leader received was tendered an ovation.

The Hon. John P. Jones of Nevada, also was to have responded to the toast "Our Mining Resources, Their Development Under Protection, the Basis of Our Industrial Growth," wrote a letter of regret to the chairman the substance of which was that after returning thanks for the invitation, saying he was an ardent protectionist and the minister of the work of the league he regrets that imperative business on the Pacific coast prevents his attending. He says he is a staunch believer in the maxim, "the American market for the American people."

At a late hour the speaking was still in progress.

Bodies Found in a Wreck.

BALTIMORE, April 29.—Five instead of three men were killed in the collision between the Cincinnati express and a freight train on the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yesterday. The bodies of J. W. Amey of Baltimore, conductor of the freight and an unknown man of the freight, were found under the engine this morning. Amey was supposed to have run away after the accident to escape punishment for the disaster which his disobedience of orders caused.

Millard Fillmore's Fortune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 29.—When ex-President Millard Fillmore died he left behind him a fortune valued at $300,000. This passed into the hands of his son, Millard Powers Fillmore, and at the death of the latter in November, 1889, a good sized batch of relatives was left to divide the money. This division will be made in the morning in the surrogate's court. A number of the eastern heirs are in town, including George M. Fillmore, of Washington; Almon Millard and B. F. Fillmore, of Indiana; nephews of the late president.

A Serious Situation.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 27.—The situation at Fortune bay is becoming serious. It is reported that a fleet of thirty-eight vessels, which had run the blockade and supplied the French at St. Pierre with bait, are returning from there to-day armed and intend taking bait by force if necessary. The government sent the steamer Conscript with Inspector Fawcett and fifty armed police to the scene last night, and it is feared here that there will be bloodshed.

The British ship Lanakoane, which sailed from Hokodate, Japan, 119 days ago for New York, has been given up as lost. She was commanded by Captain Morrison and registered a crew of about forty men. She is loaded with sulphur. [illegible] Captain Nordlab, his wife and [illegible] on board. The Lanakoane was [illegible] 1,018 tons.

A MISSING MAN.

"OLD HUTCH" DISAPPEARS FROM HIS CHICAGO HAUNTS.

A Well Known Grain Speculator Avoids a Settlement—His Recent Losses are Two Millions—Is he Insane?—The Fugitive's Trail.

CHICAGO, April 29.—B. P. Hutchinson, the veteran wheat speculator, known throughout the country as "old Hutch" has been missing since last evening, at which time he bid a friend goodbye and said he would never be seen again. He has many heavy open trades, and the many rumors circulated in regard to his disappearance have greatly disturbed the market. Mr. Hutchinson's liabilities are placed at $2,000,000 to $3,000,000, but his friends are satisfied that his assets will more than meet his obligations. A valuable clue to the speculator's whereabouts was obtained by a reporter at the depot of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road this afternoon. According to it, Mr. Hutchinson is, it is fair to presume, on his way to Florida. The ticket agent says that Mr. Hutchinson at 11 o'clock last night inquired of him the price of a ticket to Pensacola. The agent asked, "Round trip?" "No," replied Mr. Hutchinson; "I don't want to come back." The ticket was $22. Mr. Hutchinson took out a roll of bills, handed the agent $27, took the ticket and did not wait for the change. The agent said Mr. Hutchinson was slightly under the influence of liquor.

Late this afternoon Isaac Hutchinson, a young son of the retired speculator, admitted that his father had suspended business, but said he would be able to pay dollar for dollar. He did not think his father would ever resume business.

"What is the amount of his outstanding liabilities?"

"Some two and a half millions of dollars in open trades, I wish to state here that my brother, C. L. Hutchinson, has had no business relations with father for the last five years. The affairs of his bank, the Corn Exchange, will not be affected in the least by my father's downfall. Some time ago we came to the conclusion that father was demented, and we thought of taking his business affairs out of his hands and having a conservator appointed, but we were advised to abandon this intention. Father has been on the verge of ruin for a long time and we did our utmost to keep the fact from the public."

"Do you think your father has committed suicide?"

"No, I do not. Think that we will hear from him soon."

"It is rumored about the board that your father has lost over $5,000,000 during the past two years and that he has made but little money. Is this true?"

"Father has lost heavily, but I do not think it is as bad as that. The greater part of his fortune has disappeared, but he will not be entirely penniless."

Said a gentleman who is a relative of Mr. Hutchinson: We have seen for some time that his mind was affected and we have been considering whether it would not be best to take some steps of control. As regards the trades made by him we have made careful inquiries; they are few in number and are being settled now, and there are ample funds to meet all of his liabilities. He was here late last night at the Lake Shore and Rock Island depots with a bag in his hand and the supposition is that he left the city on a train on one of those roads.

Late this afternoon Charles L. Hutchinson went to his father's office and aided in adjusting the business, and when the clerks went home at 7 o'clock everything of importance had been settled. Mr. Hutchinson said that about $50,000 was required in the settlement, and that his father's checks would probably go through the board of trade clearing house to-morrow. "It's a failure," he said, "and it won't be felt in the market, and there will be no trouble on the board on account of father's absence."

Mr. Hutchinson has credit accounts with many firms which will more than overmatch all other indebtedness and have been a small balance.

In an interview tonight, H. D. Rowell of Rowell & Barrett said: I estimate Mr. Hutchinson's loss during the last four-ten months at not less than $2,000,000. The largest amount lost by him in one deal was $700,000 which he acted as the Chicago broker for Sayer & Wallace in the attempt to corner pork. Since then his losses have been very heavy, although current reports are, in my opinion, greatly exaggerated. We place his present obligation at $1,500,000, and his available assets at $750,000, representing a total shortage of $100,000. I am informed that about four months ago he settled $600,000 on his wife and [illegible] son, and retained for his own use about $300,000, all of which I believe he has since lost.

Since July, 1890, there has been a marked change in Mr. Hutchinson's method of conducting business. Of late, in a [illegible] he has been risking large losses to [illegible] small profits. In his departure from the city I think Mr. Hutchinson knew what he was doing, that he was sane enough to realize his loss in full, and was so mortified that he concluded to absent himself till a settlement could be made."

The Fugitive's Trail.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 29.—"Old Hutch" arrived in this city this morning on the 10.15 train from Chicago. He was seen walking from the train carrying a valise, and his eccentric appearance attracted attention. He walked up and down the platform as if in a deep study and did not know just what to do and finally started off up the street and was soon engaged in conversation with Mr. Miller of Miller & Diehl's shoe store. It was learned later that he had purchased a ticket over the Louisville and Nashville south-bound train leaving here at 2.03 p. m. It is supposed that he has gone to Nashville.

NASHVILLE, April 29.—If B. P. Hutchinson, the Chicago wheat bulls, is in Nashville to-night he has concealed his presence admirably. He was seen on the train between Evansville and this city but he is not registered at any of the hotels. It is thought that he went through to Chattanooga.

Minister Yen Interviewed.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—A representative of the Associated Press this morning called at the Chinese legation here and had an interview with Minister Yen in regard to the declination of his government to receive Senator Blair as the accredited representative of the United States.

Mr. Yen said through an interpreter that he had received a cablegram from the Chinese foreign office which he was instructed to lay before Secretary Blaine without delay, expressing the unwillingness of the emperor to receive Mr. Blair. Asked if this Mr. Yen had received no instructions, written or otherwise, from his government on the subject. The consideration of the question as whether the reason for this action were given, Mr. Yen declined to state. Personally he had a very high opinion of Senator Blair. He had met him several times and had always found him to be a very courteous gentleman. This action of the Chinese authorities has not created the least excitement here as it had been anticipated by many from the first. The proceeding is not a very unusual one, and cannot be construed as indicating an unfriendly feeling toward this government.

Jack the Ripper Arrested.

JERSEY CITY, April 29.—At noon today the police of this city arrested a man who is supposed to be an Algerian sailor and took him to police headquarters. Chief-of-Police Murphy said that there was no doubt that the man is the one wanted by Inspector Byrnes, of New York, for the murder of Carrie Brown at the East River hotel.

Inspector Byrnes was notified of the arrest and was requested to send officers to Jersey City to identify the prisoner.

The man arrested is known as "Frenchy No. 2." He is a boss cattle driver on tramp cattle ships and was arrested in London and and imprisoned several weeks but the authorities there were unable to identify him as "Jack the Ripper." He is a cousin of the man arrested in New York and known as "Frenchy No. 1."

Sergeant McCloskey, of Inspector Byrnes' staff, reached police headquarters this afternoon. He identified the prisoner as "Frenchy No. 2," but said he was not the man whom the New York police want for murder.

A Partial Arrangement.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., April 29. Coke Operator Keister, of the Franklin plant, effected a settlement with the labor officials to-day and his sixty employees will resume work to-morrow. The specifications are, that the old wages be paid; only union men be employed and no coke be sold to Frick. This makes four companies now working under the Knight of Labor agreement. About fifty Italians arrived at Frick's plant at Kyle on a special train to-day. Two hundred men are at work at Leisenring No. 2.

The cost of the strike thus far on both sides will aggregate about $3,000,000.

VALPARAISO, April 29.—President Balmaceda, of Chili, escaped death by assassination to day by a miracle.

He and his family were seated in a parlor of the presidential mansion when a dynamite bomb was thrown into one of the rooms through a window. The bomb exploded and did much damage to the room and furnishings, but no one in the room was hurt.

The most intense excitement was caused by the attempted assassination and the streets in the vicinity of the palace have been crowded with excited multitudes since the occurrence. There is no clue to the perpetrator of the outrage, but the authorities are using every effort to establish his identity and capture him.

ELECTING OFFICERS.

The Grand Army and Woman's Relief Corps Choose Their Department Officers—George W. Cook, of Denver, Gets the Commandership—Resolutions of Thanks.

The second day of the state G. A. R. encampment at Manitou was a thorough success. Early in the morning the veterans were up and strolling around through the parks or riding to adjacent points of interest. At ten o'clock the Grand Army convened in Wheeler hall and the Woman's Relief Corps in K. of P. hall, for the annual election of officers. For commander in chief there were three nominations made, Mr. G. W. Cook, Mr. D. L. Ezekiel and Mr. C. W. Cowell all of Denver. After some speech making a ballot was taken resulting Cook 82, Ezekiel 61, Cowell 19, and on motion the choice of Mr. Cook was made unanimous. Mr. Cook is one of the most popular of Denver's veterans and is the manager of the Colorado Coal and Iron company. By the time this election was over it was dinner time, so further elections were deferred until after the parade in the afternoon.

The ladies finished their election in the morning. The new officers are: Mrs. Climena G. Howard, of Greeley, president; Mrs. Mary L. Carr, of Longmont, senior vice-president; Mrs. Lizzie C. Smith, of Salida, junior vice-president; Mrs. May S. Hotchkiss, of Greeley, treasurer; Mrs. Josephine Cheesman, of Greeley, secretary; Mrs. Christiana Thornton, of Manitou, chaplain; Mrs. America Anderson, of Denver, counselor; Mrs. Rosella [illegible] Goodrich, of Red Cliff, inspector; Mrs. Jennie Magill of Denver, chief I. and O.; Mrs. Barron of Laramie, Wyo., Mrs. Lucy J. Dresser of Greeley, Mrs. L. S. Dodge of Boulder, Mrs. E. L. C. Dwinell of Colorado Springs and Mrs. H. E. Davis of Tie Siding, Wyo., executive committee; Mrs. Frances E. Hale of Cheyenne, delegate-at-large to the national convention; Mrs. Sarah E. Calvert of Denver, delegate; Mrs. Smidle and Mrs. Hamilton of Denver, alternates.

After dinner the veterans gathered in front of the Barker house and Commander Holden bustled and scolded around in a good natured imitation of the mustering sergeant, which brought laughter from the whole line. The G. W. Cook drum corps played martial airs, stopping once in a while to inform the people in chorus that Mr Cook was "all right." While waiting, Mr. Cook himself borrowed a drum from a young Zouave and played several solos, just to show that he had not forgotten how.

At 2 o'clock the parade started. First came the Manitou band, then the drum corps, then the college cadets under Captain Haley and then some 200 veterans. A troop of about fifty school children, waving flags and vociferously cheering, brought up the rear. The line of march led around the park, up into Canon avenue and past the Cliff, down under the arch to the residence of Mayor Tebbly, where that gentleman was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers. The veterans then returned to the hall, where the election was again taken up.

While their husbands were marching around, the ladies of the Woman's Relief corps were tendered a carriage ride by the Manitou corps. They drove up to Rainbow falls and to the Garden of the Gods, arriving about 5 o'clock.

The officers elected at the afternoon session were: N. McCarty of Rawlins, Wyo., senior vice commander; H. A. Billow of Tarryall, Colo., junior vice commander; William A. Olmsted of Pueblo, medical director; Rev. J. C. S. Wells of Manitou, chaplain; A. Hegle, F. J. Hood, M. F. Smith, August Rische and A. W. Jones, council of administration; Judge Dwight, delegate at large, and J. D. Dillenback, delegate to the national encampment at Detroit; Major Otis Remick and C. W. Cowell, alternates.

Boulder was selected as the place for the next state encampment.

Immediately after the election the officers were installed. Commander Cook appointed on his staff Comrade Philip Trounstine as assistant adjutant general and Comrade S. McClanathan as assistant quarter-master general. The following resolutions were unanimously passed:

WHEREAS, This the twelfth Department Encampment of the department of Colorado and Wyoming, appreciating the very liberal and cordial manner in which we have been received and entertained by the people of Manitou Springs, as well as the fraternal spirit manifested by Pike's Peak No. 40 toward visiting comrades and wishing to extend to both citizens and comrades of this beautiful city, as well as place on record an expression of acknowledgement of these courtesies. It is, therefore,

Resolved, That the sincere thanks of this encampment be extended to the good people of Manitou Springs for this generous reception and entertainment.

Resolved, that the comrades of Pike's Peak post have added another and a golden link to the chain of fraternal friendship that binds us to them.

At 8 o'clock the special train for Denver on the Denver and Rio Grande started and a great many of the delegates returned upon it. In the evening the installation services of the Woman's Relief Corps were held in Wheeler hall. They were conducted by Mrs. Mary Soars McHenry of Iowa, the national president and Mrs. Anna J. Blumpton, the national secretary. At the close of the exercises Mrs. America Anderson, the retiring president, was presented with an elegant gold watch as a token of the appreciation of the Woman's Relief Corps of Colorado and Wyoming of her efficient services during the past year. After the activities the delegates went to the Barker house where they were serenaded by the band and a dance was held and refreshments served.

Disastrous Prairie Fires.

STORY CITY, Iowa, April 29.—Shortly after 8 o'clock this evening a large fire was seen from the thresher company's paint shop at the prairie. Three minutes after several barrels of oil blew through the roof and the whole building was ablaze. The prison people endeavored to fight the fire themselves before calling on the city department, but the fire had gained so much headway that it was beyond control. The building containing the binding twine plant caught fire, but was speedily extinguished. A strong westerly wind drove the flames against the west end of the roll-house, and although the building was fire-proof, the windows were burned out and the smoke poured into the corridors. Inside all was confusion, convicts being alarmed and shouting, cursing and praying to be removed. The paint shop, two guard houses and the cupola of the solitary lift house were destroyed. The loss is estimated at from seventy-five to one hundred thousand dollars. Insurance is small. Prison officials think the fire was the work of a convict or possibly spontaneous combustion.

An Anarchist Outbreak Feared.

PARIS, April 29.—A most serious feeling of alarm prevails in official circles lest on the possibility of an Anarchist outbreak on May 1. As a result the military and police authorities have taken and are taking the most extensive precautions and are making every preparation possible to effectually meet and promptly suppress any disorder on the part of Anarchists or others.

Several violent Anarchist manifestos, intended to incite the soldiers at the garrison of Paris and its neighborhood to revolt, have recently been circulated by agents of the Anarchists. Several of these incendiary documents are in the possession of the police, who are now engaged in searching the residences of the Anarchist leaders.

It is announced that from to-day until the May excitement is over no soldiers will be allowed to leave their barracks except on guard duty or to bring in supplies of provisions, etc. Even the officers are confined to their barracks. To each soldier of the garrison 100 rounds of ball cartridges have been distributed. The military authorities have also arranged plans of communication with the different military posts, barracks and forts, and have completed arrangements for the concentration and distribution at points of vantage of the troops available in case of disorder. Thus the entire military and police forces of Paris are prepared, almost to a moment's notice, to issue forth from their quarters and occupy the streets and squares of Paris in such a manner that any Anarchist movement will be pretty sure to be crushed in the bud, however well planned it may be.

The Treasury's Available Funds.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Secretary Foster, this afternoon, speaking on the financial condition of the treasury, said that some of the gentlemen of available cash mentioned by Director Leech "might be regarded as trust funds, might be, I say. It would be correct to say that about seventy millions is unquestionably available cash. There is about thirty-eight millions in the banks, twenty-one millions of subsidiary coin, four millions in trade dollar bullion, twenty millions of current cash and five millions in silver, against which no certificates have been issued.

"As to the $100,000,000 of gold reserve it is held against the $346,000,000 greenbacks to make the credit of the government impregnable, for no one would be able to get together enough greenbacks to take the gold out of the treasury and the reserve they do not take it. But these notes outstanding are legal tenders and the government can and would use this gold reserve if it needed to in a pinch. It should, therefore, appear in the debt statement as available cash."

Forest Fires.

RENSSELAER, Pa., April 29.—The forest fires in the South mountains, east of Schodack, this county, were subdued this morning. Nearly 200 persons were fighting the fires all day yesterday and last night. Hundreds of acres of timberland were burned. The damage is estimated at high figures and will mount up in the thousands.

TRENTON, N. J., April 29.—A special to the State Gazette from Point Pleasant says that much property and timber have been destroyed in that region by fires. The fire began in a barn at Heidelberg and spread northwesterly over seven miles of country, cutting up 15,000 acres of timber in its progress. A number of dwellings, barns and out-buildings were also destroyed.

The citizens of Toms River and Point Pleasant are fighting the flames. Holgerville is penned in by fire. West Point Pleasant and Toms River are now threatened by fire.

Union Pacific Report.

BOSTON, Mass., April 29.—The Union Pacific issued its annual report to its stockholders to-day. In some particulars it is upon a slightly different basis from last year. But it particularly follows the same form, and is complete in detail like its predecessor. It is not unfavorable, as expected, the deficit for the system being only $2,370. This loss, President Dillon says in his introductory remarks, is due to the large increase in the operating expenses, and is in part accounted for by the fact that a larger amount of freight was moved at lower rates in 1890 than in 1889. If the percentage of operating expenses to gross earnings had been the same in 1890 as in 1889, the system would have shown a surplus for the year of $2,619,716 after the payment of all charges, instead of a deficit of $[illegible].

Collapse of a Building.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 29.—Word was received late this evening from Troy, Ala., that the Pollard opera house there had collapsed. At the time there were in the building about thirty persons, mostly young ladies, who were preparing for the annual commencement exercises of their school. Miss Pearl Stark of Troy, is known to have been killed, Miss Griffin is supposed to be buried in the ruins with a number of others whose names had not been sent here.

Miss Anne Fowler, who was severely hurt, may die. Misses Downing and Brunett were slightly injured. The cause of the accident is supposed to have been the spreading of the walls of the opera house. A search is being made in the ruins for the bodies of the girls who are missing.

Newmarket Races.

LONDON, April 29.—The great event at Newmarket to-day, the second day of the spring meeting, was the race for the 2000 guineas stakes for 3-year-olds, mile and eleven yards (34 subs). It was won by Lord Arlington's colt Common. Mr. J. H. Houldsworth's colt Orvieo was second, and Lord Durham's colt Peter Flower third. There were nine starters.

Conflagration at Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 29.—There was a terrible conflagration here this morning. The loss is fully a quarter of a million dollars. Insurance over $150,000. The fire commenced at 3 a. m. in Campbell & Co's furniture factory on King street. The fire soon got beyond control of the fire department and swept everything in its neighborhood. It was 7 a. m. before the flames were under control, and the field of destruction covered twenty acres.

M. L. DE COURSEY,

Real Estate, Investments and Loans.

FOR SALE.

1. The magnificent business property, southwest corner Pike's Peak and Nevada avenues; in the exact heart of the city, being at the point where the original four wards come together. This property has a frontage of over 150 feet on Nevada avenue, and 100 feet on Pike's Peak avenue, and has 44 feet on the alley by the city clerk's office. Inside of two years this corner will be as good as the corner of Pike's Peak and Tejon streets for business purposes, if not better, for it fronts on two 140 feet avenues, and being more centrally located commands the situation; and I will sell it for one-third the price that will buy the other. Meanwhile the improvements on it pay the taxes, and leave a handsome surplus.

2. The equally splendid residence property on North Tejon street, fronting 400 feet on the Rapid Transit line running from Willamette avenue to Monument street, with a depth of 190 feet to a 20 feet alley, in a most desirable neighborhood. One-half the frontage on Tejon street and the 190 ft. frontage on Willamette avenue is bordered with ten-year-old maple and locust trees. I will sell this grand property, if taken at once, for $35,000. Compare this with the corner, one-fourth the size, in Shook's Run bottom, which the school board was so glad to get for $8800, and you will see it is very cheap.

3. I have a large block of desirable property, consisting of lots improved and unimproved, which, while a good deal of money is required to handle it, I will sell for just one-half its real worth at market prices. The improvements yield a very fair return over and above the taxes, and within two years the property should be sold at a profit of at least 100 per cent. for anyone who will invest in it now. This is really a big thing, and I will be glad to show it to anyone who means "business." None others need apply.

4. A choice business corner on Huerfano street, 75 by 125 feet. A first class location for a warehouse, a grain and feed store, or a large blacksmithing establishment, which will catch all the trade entering town from the [illegible]. Or it would be just the corner for a forwarding and commission house, a coal and lumber and wood yard, or a stone and marble yard; large enough to show and keep stock properly, and convenient for shipping via several lines of railroad. R. W. STEELE,
Manager of the Gazette.

Our correspondent who complained of a bridge being out of repair on the Cheyenne road was mistaken. The bridge was on private property and, therefore, the road overseer was injudiciously officious. We are very glad to make this correction. But the bridge had been left lying for the public on a short cut for some time, and there was nothing to indicate to travellers that it was not a part of the public road.

The National Executive Board of United Mine Workers has decided against the gigantic strike which it was prepared to inaugurate on May 1st for an eight hour day. The announcement will be received with satisfaction. The threatened strike has shown such scenes of violence and disorder as to awaken a wholesome dread of the events of a similar character on a much larger scale. The fact that such strikes have demonstrated the funds of the association and in this way prevented the great strike, almost enough to be classed as a blessing in disguise.

Owing to the high taxes which the present tariff has placed on all labor, liquor dealers have organized to vote solidly for their own interests. It is thought that they will have a strong lever enough that neither a Liberal nor a Conservative parliament can be elected unless the liquor party unites with them. Anything would never had any chance to succeed with the third party until it had shown itself in power, when it would have the vote of this party solid for the asking. It is not for such politicians that the Weekly Gazette will be printed. In this country we are a little of everything, though the third party has never been a very dangerous one in our history.

It is not fair to assume that the strikes at Pullman were the result of the labor agitation by the late eight hour day law. It has extended already over much, time and is international in its extent. Besides these strikes are quite likely to be the result of good times of prosperity. It is human nature for those who are getting good returns from their labor to want more. The manufacturer would like to make a little more, the operator who is making good wages wants to earn better. The conditions of capital and labor are in constant equilibrium and they are always subject to disturbance. Evil results and good, change is the requirement of betterment.

An important meeting to be held in this city next month is that of the county school superintendents. It will undoubtedly awaken much interest not only among those who occupy the school positions but the general public. Referring to this meeting the Denver Republican says:

"The meeting of county school superintendents which is to be held in Colorado Springs next week should be attended by every school official in the state. In a circular letter in reference to this meeting Mr. Cody, the state superintendent of public instruction, says: 'No educational meeting held during the year offers more or more valuable results to the public schools of this state. The good accomplished by the last one held is only the possibilities of good to be realized by the adoption of the privilege of attending these meetings should be eagerly embraced. No county superintendent can afford to miss it, and the public should feel that the work of the county superintendent is of the highest importance, and so difficult to adjust, that persons who are interested such should be eager to avail themselves of every opportunity to improve their knowledge of the subject. The work of the county superintendent has a direct bearing upon the efficiency of the schools, and it is as important that they should meet with their work in meetings of this character as that teachers should do so. The aim should be to lift the public schools to a higher plane of efficiency within the limit of an economical use of the public school fund.'"

THE MILLINGTON TRIAL.

The Millington trial has been a deep point in this, that it has proven conclusively that our present jury system is not a quick and conclusive way of proving the guilt or innocence of the accused. The verdict may have been in accordance with the evidence, and it may have been in accordance with the facts. But if a man is guilty of murder he ought not to be able to bankrupt a county in an effort to avoid punishment for his crime; if he is innocent he ought not to be obliged to bankrupt himself in his defense. The cunning speeches of advocates, whose eloquence is at the command of any well filled purse, have played too important a part in this trial. It is of much greater consequence that the facts should be determined whether the accused did or did not commit murder, than whether the minor technicalities of legal practice are studiously observed. The rules of criminal procedure are the result of long experience and they are of undoubted value, but the letter of the law should never be made to kill its spirit. Much of the testimony introduced by prosecution and defense had very little to do with the point at issue and served only to distract the attention of the jury and increase the work of the newspapers. The fact that the disagreement of a single juror was able to bring the trial to a new start and that there was no assurance that the jury would not be well-able to render a verdict in twelve, was also a fruitful subject of thought and criticism.

But the great question of the whole matter is this: If it requires three months' talk and the expenditure of $100,000 to secure justice to a rich man, how can a poor man hope to receive fair treatment at the hands of the law? Either the defense of the rich man is a conspiracy to defeat justice or else the poor man is a victim of his poverty rather than of his misdeeds. It is unfair to expect that any man should not use all his possessions to defend his life and liberty, and yet it is undeniably true that many guilty men sometimes be bought, and convictions follow poverty. Should not the state more than at present prevent useless expenditures, and ensure a more equal administration of justice to rich and poor?

COURTESY AT HOME.

Mrs. Helen E. Cleaves Offers Some Remarks for General Consideration

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, April 29. Courtesy is the art of being agreeable one to another. It is one of the loveliest of virtues for true courtesy is born of wisdom, kindness, forbearance and unselfishness. It is admirable in all ranks of life and in all places, in business, in the shops, in school and among travelers, but nowhere is it more necessary or more beautiful than in the family circle, and there is no place, perhaps, where it is less practiced.

Every mother knows that each one of her young family is different from all the others. One daughter is impulsive, warm hearted and with a quick temper that blazes into flame at the least provocation, another is of a quiet temperament, but inclined to fits of sulkiness. It is the same with the boys, one is helpful, kindly and good humored, another selfish, boisterous and fond of teasing his brothers and sisters. There is nothing that will prevent clashes and quick words among all these conflicting characters except courtesy.

Love alone will not do it, for every one knows that in many households where the members are bound together by strong ties of love, when in case of sickness or sorrow they would cling to each other with almost fondness, the thousand and one petty irritations of daily life call forth a constant stream of wrangling and unpleasant words. There are families where the dinner table is never serene, and this, too, among people of education and culture. Even the presence of a guest does not check the sharp dispute which arises over the most trivial matters. This is all wrong, and is largely false to the true character of these young people who snap at one another at every turn. They do not realize themselves what they are doing, and if they encounter the same state of things in another household they are the first to condemn it. Were a mirror held up to them reflecting all their own words for a week part they would be filled with dismay.

"I never spoke in that way to my sister," a young girl said once in my hearing, when certain harsh words were repeated to her. When it was made clear to her that she did, she flushed crimson and said softly, "I know I did, and I'm sorry for it." Very true. She never did mean it. The harsh words were only an outburst of a bad and the thoughtless habit, but they left an hurtling impression on the same.

It is not the great rocks of trouble which produce the blinding dust of daily life, it is the little pebbles by the wayside and there is nothing smoothes over the little rough places like the "fragrant flower of courtesy." You may be compelled to deny a request, to say no, and say it firmly, but if you do it courteously it will leave half as much sting if it were done with blunt roughness. The fact that you are courteous shows that your respect the request and are sorry you cannot grant it.

True courtesy anticipates the desires and needs of others, and this is one reason why it is beautiful and nothing in the family circle.

All well trained children are taught to yield and to be unselfish. It is a hard lesson for them to learn, for a young child is by nature a little bigoted and until he learns a better by experience he [illegible] why all that he wishes should not be his. The tale of crying for the moon was founded on a natural element of infantile character. Now there are many ways of yielding. Some children will do it sullenly, even roughly, as if their hearts were filled at and against it, and one is sure to think that they would keep the warm corner or the soft easy chair if they were not afraid of the looks. When a young man or a young girl rises and with a pleasant smile yields the comfortable seat to an elderly person it is a delicate act of courtesy which is sure to be appreciated.

Above all things should the parents of the household be treated with courtesy, and here they themselves must set the example by their treatment of each other. There are wives who save up all the worries and trivial vexations of the day to burst out with the dreary tale the moment the husband and father enters the house. The daughters, seeing this, are very likely to fall in line with all kinds of petitions and requests, reasonable enough, perhaps, but untimely, and therefore discourteous. Now there have been worries abroad as well as at home, worries in business as well as in the kitchen and what the father needs is a sweet, courteous greeting, which will make him feel that there is peace and rest at his own fireside, even if the outside world does go wrong.

He, too, must be courteous, he must not enter his house after a day's absence with a surly face and gruff manner. Such a coming home will strike a chill to the heart of the brightest household. He may be weary, but it is one thing to be weary and another thing to be gruff because of it. It requires study to be tired cheerfully, but it is a species of self control worth studying to gain. By all means let both father and mother put trouble aside at the moment of meeting, and each strive to be not only affectionate, but courteous and thoughtful of the other's comfort. It is an understood thing that the day has not passed without bringing irritating worries to both. Put them aside for the present. If anything is of sufficient importance to demand being remembered and told, there will be time enough later when matters that went wrong have already dwindled to lesser proportions under the soothing influence of home.

It is a mark of the highest breeding to be courteous toward those who serve you. The young princes and princesses of England were invariably reprimanded by their wise mother, Queen Victoria, if she overheard them speaking rudely to their attendants, and it is a rule in all well ordered households that the servants must be treated courteously by the children. There is nothing more displeasing than to hear a young girl or boy address her maid fretfully or in an overbearing and dictatorial manner.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

What Has Been Done in the Twenty-one Years of the Order's Existence—Notes.

The following has been taken from a circular recently issued by Judge Martin, C. D. In the seventeen years since the Knights of Honor was organized it has paid out over $33,000,000 to the widows and orphans of its deceased members, and the ratio of expense is about 1.03 per cent, while the cost in the old line life insurance companies averages about 10 per cent. We find from sworn statements that in 1889 the expense of the various life insurance companies was $61,131,673 to pay to the beneficiaries of deceased members $600,040,917 while the cost of the Knights of Honor was only $57,305 to pay to its widows and orphans $3,421,038.21.

The deceased was sixty seven years of age.

The annual reports of the subordinate camps in Pennsylvania have now been received at state camp headquarters with a few exceptions, and show the order to be in a very prosperous condition, with a good increase in membership and new camps during the year ending Dec. 31, 1890, during which 11,181 new members were admitted by initiation, 129 by card and 200 reinstated, making the total membership in the state up to that date 45,958. During the year there was also a gain of ninety in the number of camps. The total amount paid out during the year for sick and funeral benefits was $74,664.61, the total amount of receipts were $310,502.61 and the total amount of expenses were $200,807.44. The financial condition of the order is as follows: Amount of cash in the treasuries of subordinate camps, $133,151.13, amount invested in real estate, bonds, etc., $[illegible], and the value of outstanding regalia, etc., $[illegible], total valuation, $[illegible].

During the present term thirty new camps have been chartered and many more are in process of formation.

Knocking Him Down.

They were looking into the window of a crockery store when the old man observed:

"Mary, there's some mighty fine sets of dishes for only sixteen cents. We never have any I guess we'll invest."

"I guess we won't. They're too high."

"Only sixteen cents."

"Yes, but when you get too good to eat on a rag carpet which cost you forty-two cents a yard you can put your head out of the window or go to the door.—Detroit Free Press.

THE EYES.

How those that are Defective may be Restored—Something in which fully One Half the Human Family is Deeply Interested.

From the Chicago Journal.

How I receive a thing sight is can be accepted only by those who have suffered the loss. Next an object of solicitude should it be to those of us who still possess it in full use? A greater should this solicitude be to those of us whose sight has been impaired by accident or as injudicious and careless use of the eyes. There are countless numbers who suffer untold misery that is attributable to defective sight. [illegible] Loss of character is one of the most tender organs of the body. Only skilled and careful hands should be permitted to touch them. Yet are but slightly impaired have been made worse by inexperienced hands. There are many sad cases of total blindness that were produced by imperfect treatment. To guard against and avert these dangers those who are afflicted with defective eyes should consult with only the most eminent skill. The question that at once occurs to mind is: Whereon I find this skill and be assured that the treatment will be perfect? Yesterday afternoon a reporter passed along State street dropped in the Matthez building at the northeast corner of Madison and Dearborn streets. Ascending to the second floor he entered the office and there at the head of the stairway found himself at Dr. Matthez's office. The door opened and a princely apartment was revealed. Everywhere refined taste was in evidence. The walls and ceilings were decorated after the artistic designs. The carpet yielded under the feet making the tread noiseless. The windows were hidden in recesses of silken curtains of [illegible] quality of delicate texture and [illegible] tinting, the sunlight gently entered. The furniture [illegible] Louis XIV style, gilded [illegible] and inlaid with [illegible]. The [illegible] history was in perfect accord in material and finish with its surroundings. The walls were tastefully hung with water colors and engravings illustrative of works of art. There were cases of repositories for the instruments and materials used in the manufacture of spectacles and glasses, all of the most approved and approved. The officer embraced every variety known to the science of vision.

The Chicago Dr. Matthez opened his office in Colorado Springs, unknown except by the flattering testimonials received by the medical faculty throughout Colorado and by those who had visited him at Denver. Now in place of one to speak of his skill and ability there are hundreds who are loud in praise expressive of the benefits received. He does not treat optically but optically providing glasses adapted to each individual case, and made with such precision as to suit each individual case and guaranteed for the loss of perfect sight by age, disease or hereditary transmission.

SECOND DAY'S SHOOT.

Spalds Wins the Cup The Visitors Leave the Lists With Full Pockets.

The shooting at Broadmoor is over. The visitors have the second time won the honors of the day and their pockets are well filled with coin. This was perfectly natural however, for our local marksmen are merely beginners, while the men from other towns are old hands, who have won their positions as the best shots of the state by long years of practice. There were a few more spectators on the grounds yesterday than were present on Tuesday, and our own marksmen made a very decided improvement in their shooting of the preceding day. Tutt, who in Tuesday's shoot was far below his usual good record was again at his best, and together with Edsall made a very fine showing for the Broadmoor club.

The gold medal offered by the Gazette to the best shot among the local marksmen was won by Mr. Tutt, with Mr. Edsall, a close second.

It will now be open to competition by the home club.

Mr. Haywood of Denver, was among the number of visitors who especially distinguished themselves, but as he was not a member of the association at the time, he was disqualified for contesting for Tuesday's cup. The weather was nearly precisely the same as that of the preceding day, it being very hot in the morning, and in the afternoon cooler, with a cloudy sky and a slight wind bringing up at intervals. The heat of the morning was very hard upon the three men from the wintry climate of Leadville, and they cooped themselves up in the house when not in the lists. The holding of the gun below the elbow until the bird is on the wing was ruled out for the shooting of yesterday, and the shoots were conducted strictly under American association rules.

In the ninth event of ten singles, which began the work of the day, Mr. Tutt succeeded in placing himself in the first rank by shooting ten birds out of ten, this being the first time that a member of the home club had held such a position. Five men in this shoot shot without missing a bird. In the ninth event extra, Tutt was also in the first place with Pickett. After the eleventh event a contest arranged between Holland and Bunbury took place outside of the original programme. This was for 5 a side, and consisted of twenty-five singles. After the first twenty shots Bunbury withdrew, the score standing Holland 20, Bunbury 18.

In the Salida cup shoot of twenty singles and three pair, eight teams of three competed, and one of the two Salida club teams was the winner of the cup, making a total of 62 out of a possible 90. The men in this team were Pickett, Wheeler and Bunbury. Edsall, of one of the home teams, made the highest score in the doubles of the Salida cup shoot, not missing a bird out of the five pair. The Ouray team which made the best score, was disqualified for winning the cup, as Holland, of the Leadville team, shot for Hiebler, who was absent. The extra sweepstakes of twenty-five singles was brought in after the cup shoot, and was won by Thomas, of Leadville.

The seventeenth and eighteenth events were combined into one shoot of twenty singles.

One or two extras were made up after the last event on the programme, and there were some good specimens of marksmanship on double after the spectators departed. The next time our visitors have they will have far less reward for their labors, as the home team is rapidly improving. Following is the score:

RATTLESNAKE BILL'S REVENGE.

PRELUDE.

Drip! drip! drip!
It was the sound of falling gore.
A man wounded nigh unto death lay on a rude cot, while his life blood was slowly ebbing away.
But he did not die.
He had sworn to be avenged, and the damns stopped the flow of blood.
Night and darkness hung like a pall on Thomson street. The dimly burning lamps cast weird shadows everywhere, and the darkness, shrinking back for a moment, would return, blacker and more dense than before.
It was a dark night on the street.
White Razor Jim, the Terror of Clarkeloo alley, was abroad.
A ball, the society event of the season, was in progress. White Razor Jim and Manda Baxter, the black belle of the street, led the grand march.

JEALOUSY.

From a dark corner of the dance hall a pair of red, venomous looking eyes glared at Jim and Manda.
The eyes belonged to Rattlesnake Bill.
Bill loved Manda, but feared his hated rival, White Razor Jim.

DEFIANCE.

The warning was repeated to White Razor Jim, and the Terror of Clarkeloo alley went prowling for Bill.
He found him.
Bill was removed to the loft, and then came the gore dripping scene described in the prelude to this story.
"On with the dance!" shouted White Razor Jim, as he wiped Bill's blood off his sword.
"On with the dance!" screamed Manda, the heartless coquette.
The dance went on.
Next day Jim and Manda fled from Thomson street. They sank rapidly from bad to worse, and finally settled in Hoboken.
Rattlesnake Bill recovered from his wounds and then he disappeared. Some said he died, others that he was on the Island.
At times a dark shadow was seen lurking about Clarkeloo alley. Some said it was Rattlesnake Bill, others that it was his ghost.

AVENGED.

Three years have elapsed.
White Razor Jim has come back to stamp again on his old stamping ground in Thomson street. It is midnight, and he is walking down Clarkeloo alley alone.
No, he is not alone. A dark shadow follows close behind.
The avenger is on his trail.
"One! two! three!" Three times a sharp razor gleamed in the darkness, and then White Razor Jim, the Terror of Clarkeloo alley, sank to the ground to rise no more.
The shadow dipped a rabbit's foot in the blood of the Terror, then slunk away in the darkness.
Rattlesnake Bill was avenged.—New York Evening Sun.

Mr Baker then gave the best exhibition of club swinging that has been seen in this town, followed by some exceedingly interesting evolutions on the parallel bars by Messrs. King, Fuller, Hellige and Baker.

Messrs. King and Dillon, who kindly volunteered to box, now gave four rounds of scientific boxing in which Mr King's lack of training put him at a disadvantage.

Mr. Vidler then broke the world's record by making 100 skips with the rope in thirty-nine seconds, the best previous performance being 100 in forty seconds.

Mr Vidler then did some very good fencing with Mr Tover, the crack fencer of the Denver Athletic club and the entertainment wound up with a most amusing three-round contest between Mr. Arthur Cornduff and Mr Frank Lyall in which the former had it very much his own way.

"Wanted, the Earth."

John Dillon, considered among the theatre-going public of this country a prime favorite in his line, will be seen at the opera house this evening. An exchange says. Mr. Dillon has graced the boards for at least thirty years, and in all that time his stage ability has never been underrated. In all these years he has been a comedy creator of great worth. He has never done anything that was not original and has never failed to please the most exacting and critical audiences. His latest comedy, "Wanted, the Earth," was written especially for him by Mr. Gus Heege, an originator of striking ideas and an ardent and delight student of human nature. That Mr Dillon has made a success of this admirable, original and extremely humorous satire on the fashionable fad element of our modern society has already been thoroughly demonstrated wherever he has appeared. Under the best of management, he has been surrounded by the best of support, whose work it is to contribute largely to the funny festivities so thoroughly sprinkled throughout the piece. All admirers of Dillon, and all admirers of refined comedy, have in store a rare treat.

Married His Aunt.

On Saturday evening there arrived in this city David Holbrook and Martha Ellen Welch from Trinidad. They stopped at the Spaulding house and afterwards went to a boarding house. Monday night a man arrived from Trinidad named Holbrook who went to the sheriff and got out warrants for the arrest of the couple charging adultery. He stated that the boy was his managed 19 years and that the women was his wife's sister and the boy's aunt, and that he could prove adultery. He wanted a warrant for the arrest of both if they had [illegible] married and only for the boy if not. The couple could not be found and the warrants were not served that evening. Early yesterday morning the couple applied at the county clerk's office for a license, giving their ages as 23 and 21 and hailing from Colorado City and Colorado Springs, and then went directly to Judge Severy. That gentleman nonchalantly that all was not right, made them one. A short time after the officers could not find the couple, and it is supposed they left for Trinidad. The father could not be found either later in the day. It is illegal for a man to wed his aunt, but what is to be done about it no one seems to know.

HUMORS OF THE BOOMERANG

[illegible] No [illegible] Was a boomerang for the first time the other morning to a Denver [illegible] it will land. If let fly in a straight line it may [illegible] a cocoa and take off the hat of an unsuspecting passer-by. It may shoot into a carriage window and frighten the occupants of the vehicle out of their wits. It may pass away over the houses and get lost, or drop upon the surface of the pavement and entangle itself among the legs of horses. It may climb up a stoop, go through an open doorway and wander around the interior of a dwelling, breaking adjacent or destroying other valuable property before it gets tired. And if it strikes anybody it may inflict such a hurt, for its rapid whirl gives it an immense force, so that a blow from one of its ends may mean death even when it is flung without much exertion of strength. I have seen a pig killed in the island of Fu[illegible] by a boomerang which appeared to be very lightly propelled. Worst of all certainly most mortifying—it may come straight back upon the thrower, perhaps follow him with a persistency which seems almost to indicate a deliberate intention, chase him about, no matter how nimbly he may try to escape and finally double him up with a thump in the stomach and reduce him to a state in which no boomerang could, for the time, be anything but an object of aversion to him, not even if it were made of a stick of candy.

Out in the country, where broad, unoccupied fields are accessible, experiments may be undertaken upon a large scale, but caution is always necessary at the beginning, and when the little curved stick is launched into space it would be wise for all spectators, and the thrower as well, to choose a protecting tree, and stand behind it, lest the missile perform its favorite exploit, and return to the point of departure, menacing every living being in the vicinity. It is quite capable of skipping round a tree, but an alert youngster ought to be able to dodge and keep himself out of harm's way. Of a religious turn of mind, he may put to incontinent use and sheep would probably see no fun in the sport, but nobody could expect a cow or a sheep to appreciate the humor of a boomerang in any case, the earliest attempts should be with instruments of moderate dimensions, from which severe bruises need not be apprehended.

The Result of Angling.

Bloodsucker—Fishing was the favorite amusement in King David's time. Indeed, I may say that it was well-nigh universal.

Foodick—I didn't know that.

Bloodsucker—Yes, you will remember that David gave it as his opinion that all men are liars.—West Shore.

TROUBLE FEARED.

An Inflammatory Circular Issued by Anarchists to Striking Coke Workers.

Trinidad, Fri., April 30. Affairs are becoming agitated in the coke region by the importation of cheap labor and now trouble is anticipated. The strikers are becoming stirred up over the actions of the coke companies in replacing them and they are holding meetings at various places and denouncing it in the wildest terms. This will fuel to the already inflamed passions the Socialists have given the striking coke men at the different works which excel anything yet for downright Socialistic doctrines.

Alex Jonas, the fiery Socialistic leader, is the author of the circular. It is arranged diametrically against the capitalists and among other things says:

"The ranks of cheap labor will ever continue to [illegible] through the life of immigration, and in the course of a few years, sooner or later, according to circumstances, the time will come when the supply of the commodity of labor shall exceed the demand, when again will begin that periodic cross turnpoint which must end with a crash and with the loss of innumerable lives. That is what must come to pass that is, if nothing occurs to prevent it.

"But to revolutionize the affairs of to-day, is the true way, and the only way to bring relief, and lasting relief to the working people.

"Are you ready? Forward then, we are with you. Who is the coward that would draw back? Form your battalion. Arm! Have you not weapons enough? There are the rails of the road, there are bombs, stocked with military stores, repeating rifles and ammunition. Fling the police in the gutter, the militia in the river! Drag the venal politicians and corrupt judges from the seats, change the capitalist hyenas from their throne. Go through the country and arouse the lowe down farmer.

"Put the rifle into his hand, range your forces from town to town, blow up the legislatures, scourge the corruption of congress, land that belongs to you, of the factories and machinery that you build.

"Why delay an instant? Are you not hundreds thousands of millions? Who can withstand you, if you choose?

"In to the street! Forward! forward!"

"Arrosa Estrada de la Patria."

No Strike in Colorado.

Denver, April 29. Information has been received from several mining districts in Colorado, and the conclusion is that Colorado coal miners will not strike for eight hours on May 1st. An attempt was made yesterday to hold a miners' convention at Pueblo for the purpose of taking some action upon this subject. But half a dozen delegates put in an appearance, and nothing was done.

At Leadville there are 300 miners, none of whom have any intention of going out, and at Trinidad, where there are 800 men employed in the mines and coke ovens, no steps have been taken in this direction.

J. J. Thomas, general manager of the Union Coal company, who employs several hundred miners, anticipates no trouble whatever, as all his men are perfectly satisfied.

Miners' Convention in Pueblo.

Pueblo, April 29—The miners' convention held here Tuesday evening took no action in regard to the much talked of strike. The representation at the convention, owing to the shortness of the time between the date of issuing the call and the date of meeting, was very light, and it is said that some of the delegates from northern Colorado stopped in Denver on their way here under the impression that it had been postponed. A call for another convention will probably be issued in a short time although no date has been set for it yet.

The Coke Strike.

Scottdale, Pa., April 29—The only excitement in the coke region today was the arrest of [illegible] under the protection of the sheriff, and will be put to work at once. Another lot will arrive to-morrow. Notwithstanding their confidence the strikers still express confidence in winning the strike. They claim that the number of men returning to work has been greatly exaggerated by the newspapers. On the other hand new men are coming daily and by Saturday they expect to have at least 1000 men at work. The Mountain plant of the Cambria company started up to-day with a small force.
